2015 AIGA (Re)DESIGN AWARDS

Submitted on November 3, 2015 - 5:46pm

AIGA, the professional association for design, presented its (Re)design Awards on October 15 at The Bullitt Center in Seattle. Several 2015 graduates from the Division of Design were winners.

Aibi

This allergy alert system helps children and school staff better respond to allergic reactions. It won the student category. Recent Bachelor of Design graduates Chip Dong Lim, Daniel Galán, and Rocky Langsy were the designers.

I Wish for an Animal

This multi-player, mixed-reality game was created to help with wildlife conservation in Iran. It won the student honorable mention category. Shaghayegh Ghassemian created it as her Master of Design thesis project.